

Classroom-Ready News Content

Learners must be able to relate academic theories with their practical application in today's global workplaces. It is often challenging to find real-world examples and illustrations of these theories that can be readily applied in the classroom.

As described by the National Association of Colleges and Employers (NACE), career readiness includes the competency of professionalism: learners must be able to apply what they have learned in the workplace and readily contribute to the organization's mission.

Solutions

Business School Resource Center is designed to bridge the gap between business theory and practical application. The Resource Center integrates current global news into the classroom and inspires students to engage in critical thinking about events shaping the world today.

The Business School Resource Center addresses programmatic and institutional accreditation requirements related to general skill areas, foundational knowledge, the global context, student engagement, entrepreneurial skills, innovation, lifelong learning, and workplace application.

Each week, Peregrine's Advisory Board of academic writers provide article summaries with key learning points, discussion questions, and activities for students. Full articles are available for faculty and students directly within the Resource Center.

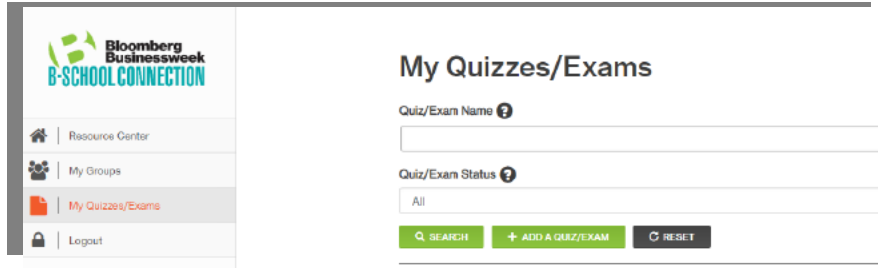

Article summaries are organized by:

- Academic Discipline & Topic
- Economic Sector
- Geographical Region
- Competency
- Summary Activity Type

Faculty can generate custom online quizzes directly from the Resource Center – as illustrated below – based on the article summaries produced by the Advisory Board. The Quiz/Exam feature offers faculty a quick way to test student knowledge on assigned articles and the concepts being taught in class.

The Resource Center offers discipline-specific sample syllabus content and lesson plans that demonstrate how it can easily integrate into your curriculum and enrich your students' experience.

We also offer LTI integration with your learning management system to create a seamless experience for faculty and students.
